The story of Greater Budapest

The story of Greater Budapest started in 1949.

7 towns joined Budapest.

The 7 towns are:

Budafok, Csepel, Kispest, Pestszenterzsébet,
Pestszentlőrinc, Rákospalota, Újpest.

16 large villages also joined the 7 towns.

The 16 large villages are:

Albertfalva, Békásmegyer, Budatétény,
Cinkota, Mátyásföld, Nagytétény, Pesthidegkút,
Pestszentimre, Pestújhely, Rákoscsaba, Rákoshegy,
Rákoskeresztúr, Rákosliget, Rákosszentmihály, Sashalom, Soroksár.

What is Budapest like?

Budapest has two parts: Buda and Pest.

Pest is flat.

Pest is loud and crowded.

Buda has many hills and valleys.

The Danube River flows between Buda and Pest.

Near the Danube, there are streets for people walking and streets for cars.

People in Budapest live in different types of houses.

For example, people live in apartment blocks,
in old apartment buildings,
or in houses with gardens.

Old apartment buildings have many floors.

Inside, there is a small courtyard.

Each floor has a circular walkway around the courtyard.

Budapest has many old buildings and statues.

Tourists can visit palaces, theatres, and museums.

People can relax in parks and baths.

Children can play in playgrounds.

In Budapest, there are houses with gardens and factories.

People can travel in many ways.

For example: by bus, metro, tram, or trolleybus.
